BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Major Maberry M. Lacey (1835–1922) was born in Fountain City, Fountain County. In 1856, he married Eliza Osborn and began learning the flour milling business in Richmond, Wayne County, Indiana. In the late 1850s, he began working as a clerk in J.J. Star clothing Store. In April, 1861, Lacey enlisted in the 8th Indiana Regiment and was elected as first lieutenant of Company I and was soon promoted to captain. After serving his three months of service with the regiment, Lacey re-enlisted as a first lieutenant in Company A of the 69th Indiana Regiment in August, 1862, and was promoted to Full Adjutant in March, 1863. He was mustered in July, 1865, and returned to Richmond where he worked as a wheat buyer and book keeper. In 1874, Lacey moved to Maryland where he farmed for ten years. He then moved to Washington, D. C. where he practiced law before retiring and returning to Fountain City where he remained until his death.
